History & Description of Poona.

For a long series of years now THE POONA GUIDE AND DIRECTORY has made its appearance, with the advent of Poona Season, and shifting of the Government here for the period of the S. W. monsoon. Poona has of late seen many changes, and possibly will see more rapid ones in the near future. Poona has been a centre of education for very long and facilities have even increased of late, students coming here from all parts of India.

Poona may be divided into three distinct parts, the old part is the City, full of records of India's past, the Cantonment which has grown up since the military occupation and Poona became in various ways the Head Quarters of the Military, and the Suburban Municipality, which embraces the outside portions of Poona, where increased housing accommodation is now being supplied.

The Suburban Municipality has become more populous owing to fresh Mansions on the Bünd Garden Road, and to the rapid development of the Estate on the Koregaon Road where a series of handsome bungalows have sprung up.

Government have also built and are building a series of Bungalows, mostly intended for gazetted officers at Yeravda. At Bamburda where a Station of the G. I. P. R. for Passengers will shortly be open, a number of moderate-sized bungalows are being provided, largely for subordinate officials and commercial men.

Poona or Punyapur, the Cleanser, owing to its being near the sacred junction of the Mutha and Mula rivers, was once a small ancient Hindu settlement, with religious associations. The early history of Poona is checkered by pillage and famine and war, in which the Mahorlan Kingdom of Bijapur played a part. Shahaji, the father of the great Shivaji, was confirmed in the possession of Poona by a King of Bijapur and succeeded to make the surroundings habitable through his Governor of Poona, Dadaji Konde, the tutor of Shivaji. The latter was born in 1617, and educated in Poona. He lived in a house built for his mother and himself, by his father, in Kambhade Peth, the oldest part of the City, Shivaji was Governor of Poona at the age of twenty, and then he began a career which made him master of the Deccan. He died in 1680, revered by his descendants as a great and wise ruler.

Poona, next to Bombay, is the most important place in the Presidency. The climate is especially good during the monsoon; it stands on the Tableland of the Deccan, 1900 feet above sea level, and in good years has a rainfall of about 30 inches. In the monsoon the climate at times resembles spring time in England. It has been under British rule since 1817. After the Battle of Kirkee the last of the Peshwas, Bajirao, became Raja of Bithoor, with a large pension, which he held to the time of his death in 1851. It was the refusal of the Government to recognise Nana Saheb, as his successor, which led to his stirring up the Indian Mutiny.

Since the year 1860, when the railway was first opened, Poona has grown considerably, and is now a little less than four hours from Bombay which is 119 miles distant by rail.

But the aspect of Poona City, too, changed a good deal after the departure of the Peshwa. Captain Robertson, the first Collector, describes a state of abject depression, which followed on that event; the population decreased greatly and poverty, prevailed. The real progress of Poona City did not begin until about 1876. There had been a famine in 1876-77, very severe; the Karakwasla water works were opened in 1876, and the big catchment called Lake Fife. The growth of Poona was very rapid and continued unabated until the plague in 1900 began its ravages. The efforts to clean the city with a view to stay the plague led to some ill feeling which was seized by agitators to stir up malcontents, and led to some crimes and the murder of the officer who had charge of the plague measures.

POONA CANTONMENT is the present head quarters of the Southern Army, and of the Sixth Poona Divisional Area and of the Poona Brigade. These offices are situated in QUEEN'S GARDENS to the east and these are surrounded by the residences of the principal Military Officers who belong to these various Commands and their staffs. The Club of Western India, situate on Elphinstone Road, is also the residence of a large number of military officers who are attached to the various military offices located in Poona.

Poona Cantonment also possesses some good hotels, where usually a number of military officers reside : the POONA HOTEL, the CONNAUGHT HOTEL, and the NAPIER HOTEL.

When it was decided to make a military Station of Poona, the principal Station in the Bombay Presidency, it was necessary not only to provide bungalows for the officers and military men attached to them, but also to provide a Bazaar. So a bazaar was started; this has grown exceedingly in a few years, and has a large indigenous population, it is indeed a town of some 46,000 inhabitants. Most of the leading firms of Bombay merchants and traders have branches here, and nearly everything procurable in Bombay can be had at about the same rates all the year round. There are also several Indian firms from Bombay who come up here and open during the Poona Season, and close when the Government depart.

The Municipal affairs of Poona Cantonment are in the hands of a Cantonment Committee, composed of the various Commanding officers of the regiments stationed in Poona, the Cantonment Magistrate being the Cantonment Secretary, the Assist. Adj. General, the P. M. O., of the district, the Executive Officer, the Collector of Poona with one Parsee, one Hindu, one Mahomedan and one European, approved by Government : the Senior Officer in the Station being the President.

The Suburban Municipality has a body of its own, who manage its affairs, and these are chiefly elected by the Ratepayers and residents in the Municipality, which has a large and straggling district, with four members nominated by the Government.

The City proper has a Municipality of its own, and conducts its own affairs separately. It is an elective body, and provides its own President.

Not many years ago, the public offices of Poona were scattered all over the Cantonment and Suburban Municipality, and much delay was caused thereby. These, numbering some twenty odd, were collected a few years ago and located in a huge building known as the Government Central Offices, which has largely enabled those offices doing business one with another to save time and trouble. These are situated in the Civil Lines on Byramji Jeejeebhoy Road.

PUBLIC OFFICES.

A walk round Poona helps the visitor to form the acquaintance of a number of public buildings and places of importance. A full description of these buildings and the position which they occupy in the ordinary life of Poona will be found elsewhere in this Guide but a visitor to Poona, who might be located in the Napier Hotel, the POONA HOTEL and the CONNAUGHT HOTEL could by perusing the following lines easily find such Public offices as he required. The huge Secretariat building, near the Sassoon Hospital, contains the Head Offices of a large number of Mofussil Government functionaries, and is easily reached.

Leaving The DECCAN HERALD office and turning right handed we pass the POONA HOTEL, and crossing the Connaught Road we have the POST OFFICE on our right. The building is not a very ornate structure, it appears too squat, and has a very heavy porch. But, thanks to the Post Master, it stands in a neat garden and is full of life and business, in fact of late it is hardly large enough. The entrance has a good deal of information about mails. The buildings devoted to the GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH OFFICES, with residences and the RAILWAY MAIL SERVICES are just behind it. On the left is the office of the D. S. P., Poona, the entrance being in Connaught Road, and ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, where Sunday and other services are held. The next compound belongs to the Railway Police and the offices of the C. I. D., and I. G. P. Then on the right again we have the Government Photo-zinco office, where some beautiful and artistic work is executed equal to that produced in any part of the world. Nearing the end of CHURCH

ROAD, we come upon a compound and the sight of an armed policeman. This is the IMPERIAL BANK of BOMBAY, and in this compound are GOVERNMENT TREASURY, the COLLECTOR'S OFFICE and COURT of the DISTRICT MAGISTRATE the Poona RECORD OFFICE. Despite the fact that there is "No Thoroughfare" we may be excused walking through, when we come upon the Sassoon Hospital and a little further on in the same compound stands the JACOB SASSOON HOSPITAL and the MATERNITY HOSPITAL, etc.

Turning round we discover the BYRAMJEE JEJEEBOY MEDICAL SCHOOL, and next to it the handsome structure known as St. HELENA'S HIGH SCHOOL, named after Miss Helena Gould of New York, to whose generosity it largely owes its existence.

But turning again down Byramjee Road we touch the enormous building devoted to the Govt. and Executive offices, and a few bungalows at present devoted to the same purpose. Crossing the Connaught Road once more we come upon the CONNAUGHT HOTEL, a handsome building, once occupied by the children of H. R. H. The Duke of Connaught, when he was C. in C. of the Bombay Army, whose head quarters were in Poona. At the corner of the Road we are confronted by two fine buildings, namely, the COUNCIL HALL, and the POONA GYMKHANA, at the far end of the historic Cricket Ground a description of these buildings together with the RECORD or ALIENATION OFFICE is to be found elsewhere. But within such a small radius, as we have shown, quite a number of the principal offices connected with Poona are placed and if we add the MILITARY FINANCE OFFICES standing on Finance Office Road, facing the POST OFFICE the military and civil visitor will find the buildings where most of his requirement if he has any of an official nature, can be met.

GLIMPSES OF OLD POONA.

In 1792 Captain Moore described the neighbourhood of Poona as well watered by numerous streamlets and adorned by groves and gardens, of which the cypress was the chief ornament. The City was not very large, covering about two miles, it was fairly but neither elegantly nor handsomely built. The Peshwa's Palace was handsome, but hardly grand enough for a royal residence. There were fairly large markets and a long street full of English looking glasses and other finery. In the Peshwa's foundries thirty-six and forty-two pounder guns were made. On the North West a bridge had been built across the Mutha. But as the two Peshwas who were interested in the work died, it was stopped as unlucky. There was a wooden bridge further up in bad repair. A fine large bridge, capable of taking the traffic, between the city and the new Station, the SHAIK SHALA BRIDGE will soon be open.

From 1790 to 1817, when Poona passed into the hands of the British it was a scene of almost continual strife, and Holkar and Scindia figured alternately in the fighting intriguing, and reprisals which took place, until his treachery to the British cost Bajji Rao his throne, and the reign of the Peishwas terminated in blood and confusion. With the end of the gaiety and richness of Bajji Rao, the demand for the rich silks and tissues of gold ceased, and dealers and weavers were impoverished. In 1825 instead of its old bustle and gaiety, the city presented the tameness of poverty, the people were leading idle lives, without employment or object. In 1832 the French traveller Jacquemont, described Poona as ill-built and dirty, and drew a not very flattering picture of its inhabitants. It is evident that in those days Poona had gone down considerably.

OLD POONA SEASONS.

A British officer thus describes Poona and its society, in the monsoon of 1861:—

"We rattled on down the steep hills, over the two bridges, and right into Poona with perfect safety not sorry to find myself at 10 o'clock at night comfortably installed in a pretty house in the Horse Artillery Lines which had been previously prepared for our reception." The writer says that Poona consisted of two grand divisions, the City and the Camp, the former enclosed with high walls and entered by strongly fortified gates, inhabited exclusively by Indians. The camp comprised the regimental and civil lines and the numerous private dwellings of the English residents and visitors, the English and Scotch churches, and a masonic lodge, a good esplanade, and excellent roads intersecting each other. The houses are with few exceptions thatched bungalows, standing separately, surrounded by pretty gardens enclosed by hedges formed of the pricklypear mingled with bright blossomed gold mohur. The author also expresses his admiration for the urtidy and insanitary prickly pear. "The effect of this species of enclosure is both pleasing and rural, and certainly very superior in appearance to the damp, discoloured walls which surrounded the houses in Bombay." Of Kirkee, he remarks: Kirkee has now become a regular cantonment with commodious barracks and comfortable houses adapted to the accommodation of officers of the dragoon regiments always stationed there. It also possesses a small church and an officiating chaplain and is generally considered both a healthy and an agreeable situation, embracing from its vicinity to Poona all the advantages of Society whilst the distance is sufficient to secure to the quietly disposed all the privileges of retirement. The monsoon residence of the Government of Bombay is situated at Dapuri, about three miles beyond Kirkee, rather inconveniently situated for the good folk of Poona who are expected to pay their respects in morning visits, as well as by the acceptance of invitations to dinner and balls. Dapuri is full seven miles from Poona, and it requires a considerable portion of fascination in a hostess to reconcile the guests to such an expedition on a wet night, or when the thermometer stands above 88 deg. The writer admired the climate of Poona. "It so greatly revives and reanimates the spirits that everyone seems inclined to enter with considerable zest into the pleasure of Society, consequently a stream of a gaiety commences with the opening of the Season not unlike the routine of amusement at a watering place at home, and the very expression of Poona in the rains, is significant of every species of special enjoyment. It is really a matter of difficulty to obtain a house at this time of the year, for in addition to the three or four regiments always stationed in Poona and the numerous visitants from Bombay, all the civilians and engineers flock in with their families from their respective districts, too happy to change tents and jungle life for comfortable bungalows and holiday making in Poona. The best houses are unsully engaged from the previous year, but woe to the unwary man who has delayed providing himself with a shelter before the Season begins. The Church at Poona is well centrally situated within easy distance of the European barracks and with sufficient accommodation for one regiment at a time but though seats in abundance have been provided for the soldiers the architect did not consider it desirable that the poor 'sahib log' portion of the community should be equally well cared for."

GANESHKHIND.

Containing Government House and Gardens, lying to the south-west of Kirkee, and affording a pleasant drive of little more than half an hour from Poona, a distance of about four miles. This forms the residence of H. E. the Governor of Bombay during the rains, when Poona constitutes the headquarters of the Government; all official business connected with the Civil administration being conducted in the Council Hall, of which we shall speak presently. This splendid building—Government House—was commenced in 1864 during the Governorship of the late Sir Bartle Frere, completed in 1870 at an aggregate cost of sixteen lakhs of rupees—inclusive of the cost of the whole gubernatorial establishment. The main building is in the Italian Gothic style, and was built by Mr. Howard, C. E., from designs by Mr. Tenbrink.

Its total length of 800 feet (running north and south) is broken into two double-storied wings connected by a lower central portion, the northern and larger wing carrying a tower 100 feet high, the south wing and centre contain on the ground floors the public room, consisting of a durbar or drawing room 80 by 29 handsomely decorated in white and gold, an oak panelled dining room with some beautiful portraits, a drawing room 60 by 30 with arcades on both sides, that to the back, opening on to a large conservatory and winter garden. On the upper story are bed rooms. The north wing contains the Governor's office and rooms, forming his private residence. From the tower an extensive view of the surrounding country may be obtained. The buildings stand in the magnificent ornamental garden stocked with choice and rare plants and is well worth a visit. For this permission must previously be sought. The palatial residence at Cansuhind, replaced the old Government House at Dapuri on which it was pronounced to be an improvement in every respect whether of sight and amplitude, solidity, or grace and beauty of structure and facility of access from Poora or Pomlay. The house front, now made in terraces, is laid out with great taste the arcades with foliage plants shut off a large tank, the grounds beyond are in good order, and are part of the site of the Battle of Kirkee.

The grounds have been beautifully laid out of recent years, the terraces at the back especially, the garden fronting the building containing many rare and beautiful flowers, the approaches have been increased, the winter garden made resplendent.

The cricket field is almost historic. Here some of the best matches ever played in India have been witnessed, through Lord Harris, who did a great deal for Indian cricket. There are also Golf Links, and Tennis Courts. At the back on part of the site of the Battle of Kirkee, Gymkhanas and gatherings are held.

A number of bungalows were built for the accommodation of the visitors and Staff. Near the south entrance is a clock tower and place for the Quarter Guard. The Eody Guard are at Aundh. Facing the main entrance is the conspicuous Temple of Chattrasinghi.

UNITED SERVICE LIBRARY.

The United Service Library is located in the Gymkhana Club. The Library contains above ten 10,000 Volumes. All officers of the Naval and the Military Services and members of the Civil Services resident in, or belonging to the station shall have the right of becoming subscribers on their entering names in the subscribers book. All other persons desirous of becoming subscribers should apply to the Honorary Secretary. Subscribers are classed under the following heads—Yearly paying 30 rupees (b) half yearly paying 18 Rupees (c) Quarterly 11 rupees (d) monthly paying 4 Rupees Subalterns only pay half monthly rate.

THE GYMKHANA CLUB.

The Club with an extent of 14 acres was formerly known as the Edwards Gardens, and contains a Cricket, Football, and Hockey grounds, Tennis Courts, Badminton Courts, Croquet Ground and Garden with a carriage drive from the S. E. to the W. the main buildings consist of a Ball Room with raised stage for theatrical performances, two rooms 30 feet by 23 feet for Billiards and Bar rooms, spacious verandah on the E. and W. Ladies and gentlemen Dressing Rooms, Card Room, Office, etc., and on the upper floor two rooms are occupied by the United Services Library. The foundation stone was laid by H. E. Sir James Fergusson in January 1885 and the Club was definitely formed in July 1886. Besides the main building a Badminton shed, which is also used as a Supper room, has been added. The building was designed by Colonel W. Ducat, R. E. The funds required for erecting the buildings and laying out the grounds were partly contributed by public-spirited gentlemen European and Indian or raised by the issues of debentures. The Club was founded to provide for all the sports hitherto supported by the Gymkhana. Lately important alterations and additions have been made in the shape of a large dressing room and other accommodation for members.

The Gymkhana Club is largely frequented by ladies and gentlemen at evening, and the membership has greatly increased of late. Regimental Bands play there at stated periods.

The spacious grounds at the back is the well known Cricket Field, where yearly a great many interesting matches are played. Football, Hockey, etc.

There are Hon. Secs. for most of the sports and dramatic performances which take place when the Theatre is open to the public.

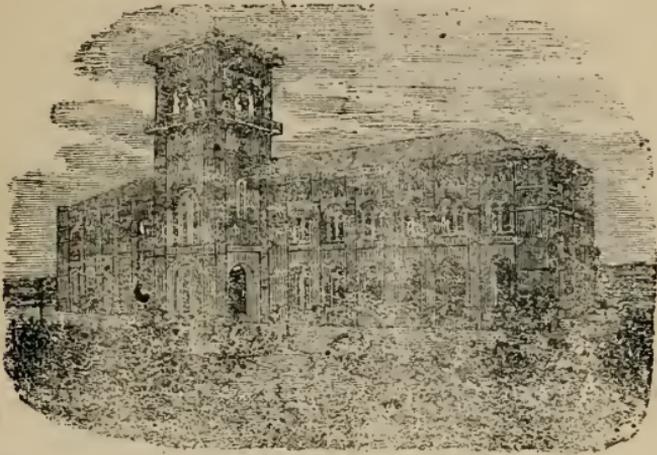

Golf Links are established at Yerrowda and Polo is played at times.

THE DECCAN CLUB.

The institution of the Deccan Club in 1891 supplied a much needed want amongst the intelligent and educated portion of the Indian community. The Club is strictly non-political and non-sectarian, its main object to promote social intercourse, good feeling and fellowship among the members. For the present the Club has for its habitation the spacious building, overlooking the lake near Parbūti, which once formed one of the principal sights of Poona, but which alas! is now dry, its beauty having been sacrificed to the goddess of Sanitation, now worshipped in all the civilised countries of the world. For an hour or two of undisturbed quiet and retreat from the toils and turmoils of the day and as a temporary relief from the day's anxieties and cares, free from the contamination of the busy world, enveloped by a group of stately trees, and located in the very midst of sylvan beauties, there is not a place in Poona that could approach this picturesque and ancient domain of the Peshwas. The club provides a well supplied Reading Room, Tennis and Badminton Courts, a Billiard Room, Drawing Room, and an apartment for indoor games and amusements.

Additions have recently been made in the shape of furnished rooms for boarders (members of the Club) from outstations. Refreshments are also provided but on temperance principles. Among its members at the present day may be found European and Indian Civilians, Hindüs, Parsees and Mahomedans. Sunday Evening is a great occasion for the gathering of all Communities.

 THE COUNCIL HALL.

In official importance to Government House stands the Council Hall which formerly belonged to General Phayre, from whom it was purchased by the Government, with its adjoining ground. The building, however, had to be very much enlarged and improved at an extra cost of nearly one lakh and twenty thousand rupees. It is a doublestoried building erected in the Venetian Gothic style by Col. Mellis, the then Executive Engineer of Poona. The Hall in which the Bombay Legislative Council meets, and in which the Governor holds his annual Levee, is 80 feet by 40 feet and commanded all round by an elegant gallery. It is handsomely decorated. From the tower, to which access is obtained by means of a small staircase, a magnificent view of the country around may be obtained. The hall besides is utilised for more or less official ceremonies, such as Durbars, Levees and the like. At the north end is a handsome circular stained glass window with the insignia of the Star of India in the centre. At the south end are two rooms forming a picture gallery containing numerous portraits of former Governors of Bombay, the Native Princes of India and their Ministers, and the Sardars of the Deccan. It is in the Hall that the official business of the Presidency is conducted during the monsoon months of the year. His Excellency the Governor usually attends once or twice a week at stated periods. The offices of the chief and other Secretaries to Government are in this building, and the clerks offices are in a lower building to the east of the main one.

The Bombay Legislative Council hold their Sessions here during the Monsoon, the offices of the Ministers of Education, Agriculture and others, are temporarily placed in the compound adjoining the Alienation Offices.

THE DECCAN COLLEGE.

In the year 1821, soon after the occupation of the Deccan by the British Government, the Poona College was founded to fulfil the implied obligation of the new rules with regard to a portion of the revenue of the Mahratta State. The name by order of Government was changed to Deccan College in 1868 on the occupation of the present building, erected at a cost of two lakhs and a half of rupees, about one lakh of which was contributed by the first Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Bart. It lies on the carriage road via the Bünd, running between Poona and Kirkee. It is an upper-storied building of the Gothic style of architecture, and was designed by Major-General H. C. Wilkins, R. E. Considerable additions have since been made to it. As its site removed from the City, accommodation has been supplied for the reception of resident students, who make their own arrangement for board, etc., while paying a nominal fee for the lodging afforded them. Quarters, for the Principal's residence have been constructed. The College is capable of receiving 150 students without inconveniently crowding and about 120 students can be provided with residential quarters. All the students must be matriculated members of the University, and lectures are given for all the University Classes up to and including the degree of M. A. The College grounds are about fifty acres in extent, and there is an extensive playing field with a pavilion attached on the opposite side to the main entrance.

THE FERGUSSON COLLEGE.

This College is situated in Chattersinghi plain near, Bamburda between the City and Ganeskhind and was opened by His Excellency Lord Sandhurst on the 27th of April 1895. The College was started under the auspices of the Deccan Education Society and is recognised by the Bombay University in the whole Faculty of Arts. The Fergusson College is the outcome of the earnest labours of a few Indian gentlemen devoted to the cause of Indian Education, some of whom personally interviewed wealthy Maharajas and others all over the Presidency to raise the large amount of money required for the undertaking. The College buildings have been erected on a very fine site which has been leased from its owner for 99 years. The extent of the area enclosed for the College and other buildings is 37 acres comprising a recreation ground and garden and field for cricket, football, Gymnasium, tennis etc. The College premises consist of large substantial upper-storied buildings with wings, and the design is neat and appropriate. On the ground floor is the library, laboratory, office and classes rooms, whilst upstairs there is a commodious central hall, about 83 feet by 23 feet independent of a space occupied by lecturers and speakers: four large class rooms and two small rooms for lady students. The cost of the buildings was Rs. 87,000, the architect being Rao Bahadur V. N. Kanitkar. A new chemical laboratory has been also recently built at a cost of Rs. 30,000. To the North of the buildings and at 200 yards distance stands the Residential quarters for the students, enclosing a quadrangle 120 feet square. There are 56 rooms in all, 28 on each floor. A new block of 13 single rooms was also added. Two students are accommodated in each room, this furnishing occupation for over 130 students. The dining rooms for the different castes are admirably arranged, as are also the kitchens. The residential quarters cost about Rs. 50,000. There is also a bungalow for the Principal in the College grounds. The foundation stone of the College building was laid in 1892 by Lord Harris. The College at present contains about 1000 students.

THE ENGINEERING COLLEGE

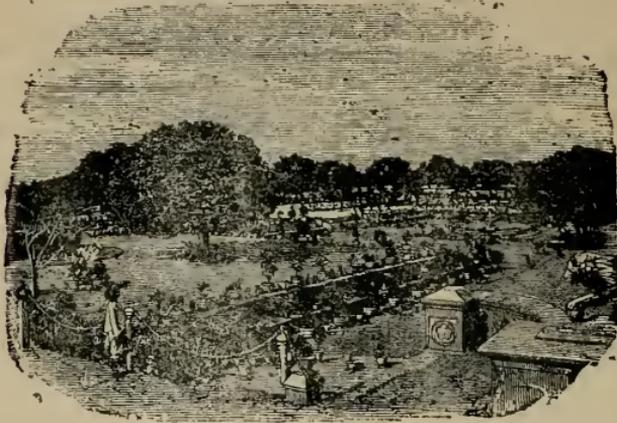

Was completed in 1868 at a cost of about two lakhs of Rupees one-fourth of which was contributed by the first Sir Cowasjee Jehangir Readymoney K.C.S.I. whose generous purpose it was to open a new profession for his fellow country-men by improving upon the idea first mooted in 1854 by the Government in the Establishment of a school for the education of subordinates of the Public Works Department. The main building is in the Saracenic Gothic style and built of trap rock. It was constructed by Mr. W. S. Howard, C. E., the then Executive Engineer, Poona and Kurjee. In addition to this, there are large laboratory buildings, a drawing hall, workshops and hostels.

Attached to the College are the Engineering, Mechanical and Electrical Classes with workshops and foundry. There are three grades of Engineering students attending the College:—(a) Those studying for degrees in Civil Engineering. (b) Those studying through the medium of English for the grade of Sub-Overseers, P. W. D.

(c) Apprentices who pursue their studies in the workshops attached to the College with the view of qualifying as skilled mechanics and artisans and as Electrical Apprentices.

The College in its several departments is under the control of the Director of Public Instruction but the principal and Professors are appointed by the Government.

THE BUND GARDENS.

These gardens were thrown open to the public in 1860. The gardens are well-known being situated on one of the most frequented and popular spots in the whole of Poona, on the south bank of the Mūtha-Mūla, which is spanned close to the Gardens by the Fitzgerald Bridge, over which runs the road leading to Kirkee via the Deccan College, on the left bank, and another road which branches off to the right to Yerrowda and to Ahmednagar. The Gardens were designed and constructed by the late Colonel Sellon, R. E. on an unsightly piece of waste ground, since so artistically reclaimed. The grounds are tastefully laid out in terraces reaching to the riverside and contain a fountain, fernery, and bandstand. The Gardens are beautifully planted and well-kept. Travellers from the Riviera and the Bay of Naples have been reminded in this spot of sights and scenes they have dwelt on long ago and dream of again. Connecting the Gardens with the opposite bank of the river is the Sir Jamsctji, Būnd, constructed originally to dam up and conserve water for drinking and household purposes but since the construction of the Kharakwasla water works it is no longer needed to fulfil the benevolent purpose for which it was erected upwards of fifty years ago, at a total cost of more than two lakhs and a half. In the hot weather one may walk across the bünd from one bank to the other but during the rains the swollen river lightly disdains this massive obstruction, thus presumptuously barring its impetuous progress and surging tempestuous over it thunders down into the hollows beneath, scornfully tossing its tawny mane and roaring and growling so as to be distinctly heard for some distance. The sight is strikingly attractive, particularly on a moonlight night, when everything else in and around the gardens is wrapped in silence, and only the rapid, restless river glistening, with silvery-sweep smoothly onwards till with the swirling rush and roar of many waters warmed into mimic cascade-like contention, it leaps headlong into the chasm below with a consciousness of an importance all its own. During the Monsoon, when the river is in flood and the current strong, it is dangerous for boating parties to approach the Bñnd. In 1893 a sad accident happened at this spot when three officers belonging to the 7th Mñssars were carried over the Bñnd in a sailing boat and drowned.

The Bñnd Gardens, in short, during the Monsoon or on moonlight nights, are "a thing of beauty and a joy for ever." They cannot compare with Taj Mahal Gardens near Agra or the Shalimar Gardens and other Gardens near Lahore and elsewhere in Northern India, since they cannot claim such vast and classical importance enhanced by the magnificence of the historical mausoleum of the Great Mogùls and their Empresses which the latter contain and adorn; but they are beautiful in their unambitious simplicity, heightened by the grandeur and stillness of the scenery around.

THE EMPRESS BOTANICAL GARDENS.

These were formerly known as the Soldiers Gardens. They were formerly in charge of the Military authorities, but as they could not be kept up by them, they were taken by Government. The gardens are in charge of the Agri-Horticultural Society of W. I. Here good vegetable and Flower seeds are sold. Cut Flowers of all kinds and plants in pots are sold at very moderate rates in the gardens to all applicants. The Superintendent and his assistants despatch bouquets, wreaths, crosses, etc., at short notice to out-stations per V. P. P. The Gardens are situated east of the Race Course on the Prince of Wales Drive, a most pleasant and in fact the drive par excellence of Poona. It is about two miles from the Post Office by the carriage road although from the Grand Stand it is but ten minutes walk across the Parade ground. The gardens have been very much improved of late flowers and plants of rare and beautiful kinds may be seen here and so the gardens both in the morning and evening are well worth visiting. The Poona Flower Show is held here and the beautiful gardens lend better room and scope for display of the floral function. All information as to supplying plants, fruits etc., may be obtained on application to the Superintendent at the office in the grounds.

THE POONA CONVENT

This building, of Gothic style, was erected in 1863 from subscriptions most liberally raised by every class of society. The amount thus obtained was doubled by Government. The total cost was Rs 80,300, exclusive of a small building added afterwards, as a poor school for Native Christian Girls. The Institution includes three separate schools, viz, St. Joseph's Boarding School, St. Francis Xavier's Day School, and St. Anne's Day School. The first was specially intended for the orphan children of British soldiers, that they might receive a sound education adapted to their future wants; while this end is kept in view, a large number of boarders, the children of Civilians, several from outstations, are admitted for the better maintenance of the Establishment.

The Second School admits Day Scholars, European and Eurasian, and a limited number of non-Christian girls.

The Third is for the training of Native Christian girls. The girls of the 3rd School are taught according to the rules of the Government Education Code. In the 1st and 2nd is the course of studies is pursued up to the Matriculation class. In the 3rd up to IV standard.

The School rooms nine in number, are large and airy. The Boarding School has two spacious and well-ventilated dormitories sufficient to accommodate over 130 girls.

The two large playgrounds, the one in front, the other behind the main building, present very attractive scenes when of an evening the happy juvenile inmates of the Convent, freed from irksome tasks, light hearted and gay indulge in pleasant games such as Tennis, Badminton, Croquet, Skipping Ring, etc.,

The following accomplishments are taught.—plain and fancy needlework of every description, French, Music, both instrumental and vocal, painting and Drawing. The whole establishment is under the direction of the Religious ladies of the Society of Jesus and Mary.

ST. VINCENT'S HIGH SCHOOL.

The St. Vincent's High School, which is situated in Convent Street, was opened in the latter months of 1868. St. Vincent's School is registered by the Educational Department as an English teaching High School. It is intended for the Education of the Poona Catholics, but also non-Christians are admitted as far as Grant-in-Aid Codes allow, i. e., that non-Christians must have passed the IV Standard of a Vernacular School. It is under the management and partly taught by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus. The boys are instructed in all the subjects laid down in the Government Code for all English Teaching Schools, Bombay Presidency, and are prepared for the Matriculation of the Bombay University. Book-Keeping, drawing, are also taught and boys prepared for the Examination in Drawing of the Bombay School of Art. Physical drill and Gymnastic exercises are also attended to.

It scored its first success in the Bombay Matriculation Examination in 1894. The attendance soon rose to 200.

CHURCH OF ST. FRANCIS XAVIER.

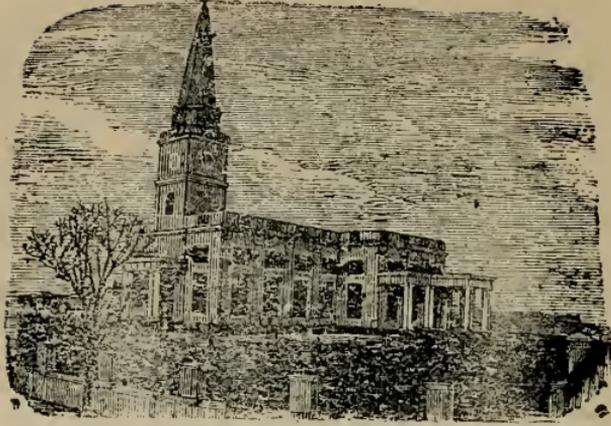

The site of St. Francis Xavier's Church was granted by Government in 1860 to erect thereon a Church for the benefit to the Catholics living in the Sudder Bazaar and its surroundings. It is a neat and strong stone-building in Gothic style designed and executed at a cost of Rs. 10,000.

ST. MATTHEW'S (C. M. S.) CHURCH AND DIVINITY SCHOOL

This Church for Indians in connection with the Church Missionary Society is situated in the Wellesley Road, Civil Lines, almost opposite to the Jewish Synagogue. It was dedicated by Dr. Mylne, Bishop of Bombay, in 1893, In 1901 new aisles were added to the building so that there are sitting for about 160 persons. The aisles were the gift of the late Miss Ashlin to whom there is a tablet in this Church, a Marathi congregation and a Tamil congregation meet regularly for worship.

In the same compound as the Church is St. Matthew's Divinity School for training Evangelists. The school was started by Rev. R. A. Squires in 1888, in a rented bungalow. The foundation stone of the present building was laid on October 22nd 1895 by Lady Sandhurst. The building consists of a school building with two class rooms and a lecture hall. A detached building with accommodation for twelve single and three married students and residence for the Missionary in charge.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

This is the oldest Established Church in Poona or its neighbourhood. The site of the Church is that of an old Temple of Mahadev and the Church was built by Lieut. Nash of the East India Company's Engineers. The tower of the west end of the Church is surmounted by a spire of lath and plaster. On the North and South of the tower are respectively a vestry and a lamp room on the ground floor, with a staircase on the south leading up to the gallery. The interior of the Church is 97 feet long from the Church step, and the transept 88 feet from north to south. The width of the nave is 15 feet and the transept 35 feet. The top of the spire is 103 feet from the ground. The eight round pillars, four on each side in the nave are remarkable for the excellence of the Chunam plastering with which they are covered, having a surface almost like marble. The Church accommodates over 1,000 worshippers. The bell in the tower at present replaced the original one and was brought from Kaira Church.

The Church, the foundation of which was laid in June 1821 was consecrated by Bishop Heber in 1825. The Bishop has left an excellent account of his journey up to Poona from Bombay. He describes the Church as a spacious, convenient building but in bad architectural taste. The seating arrangements appear to have been altered by successive Chaplains, with a view to accommodating increased demands, as a military Church, and to supply the needs of an increasing civilian population.

The organ seems to have quite a history of its own. It reached Poona in 1869 when an organ chamber had to be built for its reception. In 1883 having become quite dilapidated, it was sent to England for repairs. It was once again removed for repairs and its place supplied by an harmonium but in 1905, the organ, thoroughly renovated and repaired, was reestablished and re-opened.

Being the oldest and most representative Church of Poona, St. Mary's naturally contains a great many memorials of "sages who wrote and warriors who bled." The stones and brasses commemorate many noble names. One who was buried in the Church itself has placed over him the following inscription:—

Beneath this stone are the remains for Sir Robert Grant, Knight Grand Cross of the Order of Guelphs of Hanover, one of Her Majesty's most Honourable Privy Councillors, and Governor of Bombay. He died at Dapooree on the 9th of July 1838, in the 60th year of his age.

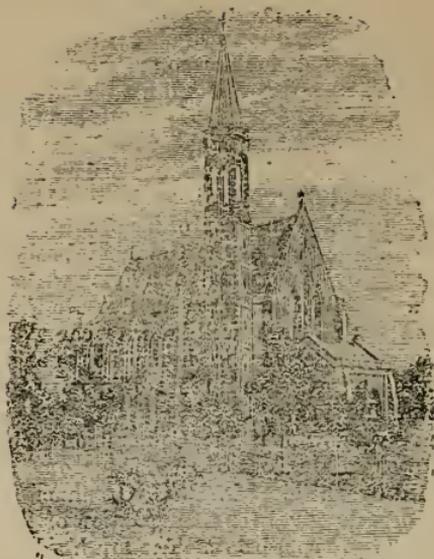

Sir R. Grant, the founder of the Grant Medical College, was known amongst many other gifts he possessed, as a hymn writer, some of his hymns are well-known to-day, "Saviour when in dust to Thee" and "O worship the King, all glorious above" are well-known church hymns especially. One of his hymns has found a place in hymn books belonging to various denominations, and also in many collections of poetry commences, "When gathering clouds around I view."

The stained glass window over the Communion table was erected by Colonel Nasmyth, a superintendent of the Trigonometrical Survey. The window was designed by the late Mr. R. G. Oxenham, Director of Public Instruction. The north side gives the annunciation of the Virgin and Moses at the Burning Bush (as a type) below. The south side represents the Ascension above, translation of Elisha (as a type) below. The middle window portrays our Lord in Majesty, whilst beneath is Moses in prayer over Amalek. The Baptistry window to the memory of Brigadier-General Sewell, represents Noah's sacrifice, the Israelites crossing the Red Sea and the Circumcision and Baptism. The Leotern, which dates from 1870: was executed by a native boy under the superintendence of Colonel Finch, from designs by a London firm. The Altar Cross was presented by a lady in memory of her brother.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH (CHURCH OF SCOTLAND).

This Church was built and is maintained for the members of the Church of Scotland belonging to the Army in Poona, stands on the Sholapur road not far from the Central Gymnasium. It is a plain but convenient building and may be distinguished by a St. Andrew's Cross on the top of the Belfry. The original building which occupied this site was erected in 1861, but was found to be too small when a Scots regiment happened to be stationed here so it was pulled down and the present building substituted in 1895, to which a chancel was afterwards added. The Church measures 80 feet by 30, and the chancel 30 feet by 17 and provides sitting room for 800 soldiers.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

This Church, situated near the General Post Office, the Government Telegraph Office, and the Military Finance Office, was erected by the Government, consecrated by Bishop Hardinge in the year 1863. It is built after the style of La Sainte Chapelle, Paris, from drawings executed by the Rev. F. Gell, B. A. The Church has accommodation for seating about 250 people. It was intended by the Government for the use of Civil and Military Officers residing in Queen's Gardens and Civil Lines.

On the 5th July 1900, it was partially destroyed by fire owing to the carelessness of some plumbers. Only the roofless walls remained. Some of the property of the Church was saved including a portion of the organ, but most of the other appurtenances were entirely destroyed. The Church was restored by the Public Works Department and opened for public worship by the Venerable W. E. Scott, Archdeacon of Bombay, on Sunday June 9th, 1901. During the restoration of the Church a small temporary organ was put up by Messrs Rose and Co. Bombay, from designs prepared by Surg-Gen. Jennings, I. M. S., out of the portions of the old organ which had been saved from the fire. This was used at the opening services and for nearly ten years after, during which time sufficient money was gradually collected to build a new instrument suitable for the Church.

When this was accomplished Surgeon-General Jennings very kindly prepared fresh designs for an organ in such a way as to still utilize the best parts of the old organ and the work was entrusted to a Calcutta firm who put up the new organ in February 1910 which is now placed in a convenient organ chamber.

Among the registers are the old open diapasons well mellowed by age and by use, a striking gamba, a very sweet flute and bourdon, which could not be better adapted for the building. The instrument which has an appearance well in keeping with the rest of the Church stands to the north of the choir behind the pulpit in a newly built Organ Chamber.

A memorial window to the memory of Her Majesty, the Queen Victoria was purchased by subscriptions from the congregation and placed over the altar. The window which is a fine specimen of the work of Messrs. Jones and Willis, of Great Russell Street, London, represents the Resurrection and Ascension of our Blessed Lord. The window was unveiled by H. E. Lord Northcote on 17th June, 1902, Dr. MacArthur, Bishop of Bombay preaching a special sermon on the occasion. During the past few years a garden has grown up around the Church. It is maintained by the voluntary contributions of the congregation. The Church contains a beautiful Reredos erected by the late Bishop Pym to the memory of his wife, who died in Poona. The subject of the altarpiece is the Transfiguration of our Blessed Lord in marble, the work of an English sculptor. It has some beautiful figures of Apostles, and some fine mosaics and contains an inscription: "To the glory of God and in loving remembrance of Lucy Ann Pym." There is also a Memorial brass to the late Bishop and his wife presented by his son, bearing the following "To the glory of God: in ever loving memory of Walter Rivven Pym D. D., Bishop of Bombay, who died at Poona 2nd March 1908, and of Lucy Ann, his wife, who landed with him in India 16th February 1904 and died of cholera in Poona 6th August 1904, XI. John 25".

UNITED FREE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND MISSION POONA.

This Mission which is the oldest working in Poona, has a staff of five European male missionaries and six ladies. In connection with it work is carried on in the vernacular in the streets of the City, a hall for this kind of evangelistic work called the Torrance Hall being situated in Ganesh Peth. Work in English among the large number of educated Indians in the City centres round the John Small Memorial Institute in Nana's Peth. The Christian congregation in connection with the Mission is now incorporated in the Presbyterian Church in India and worships in their Church in Nana's Peth. A Hospital and Dispensary are carried on in Shukrawar Peth for this medical work; large and suitable buildings are erected for which substantial assistance is given by Government. A Girls' Orphanage and Boarding School is one of the departments of this Mission's work while seven schools are carried on in the city and cantonment for Hindu and Mahomedan girls. At two stations Saswad and Lonavla educational and evangelistic work is regularly carried on while from time to time evangelistic tours are made in the wide district which is recognised as the field of this Mission.

In connection a Leper Asylum was opened by the Hon'ble Sir John Muir-Mackenzie, K. C. I. E., Senior Member of H. E., the Governor's

Council on 16th March 1909. The Asylum is located on a breezy eminence about six miles out of Poona on the old Satara road. It has been designed, at an estimated cost of nearly Rs. 60,000 to accommodate 200 lepers (100 men and 100 women). The Asylum consists of several blocks of well ventilated buildings, eminently adapted to the purpose for which they were built. The conception of the Asylum originated several years ago with one of the Secretaries of the Mission for Lepers in India and the East. Ample grounds surround the Asylum which is used for the employment of all lepers who are able to use their hands and feet in such forms of light work as sowing, planting vegetables and flowers, so as to make their life more interesting and varied.

CHURCH OF SCOTLAND MISSION POONA.

The following are the branches of the work in connection with the Mission -- General Church and Mission work in the City and surrounding villages, schools in the city and some villages. Zenana work in Poona and in Paud, a Girl's Orphanage and Training School for Teachers. St. Margaret Hospital for women and children. There are twelve European Missionaries, three Catechists and a well-equipped staff of teachers and other native workers, with a thousand scholars chiefly girls.

THE CHURCH OF OUR LADY OF IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

This Church popularly known as the City Chapel, situated in Nana's Peth, is a glaring white edifice after the Roman style of architecture facing the rising sun. It is under the jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Goa, Patriarch of the East Indies and is the oldest place of Roman Catholic worship in the District of Poona. In the year 1794 the Peshwa Savai Maladeo Rao, in recognition of the valuable services rendered to him and to the army by the Portuguese allotted to them a plot of ground and the expenses for the erection of a church for their use. On the downfall of the Peshwa's rule the British Government continued to support it, placing the reverend incumbent among the gazetted officers with a handsome monthly allowance. The Church at this time exercised an unlimited jurisdiction over all the Catholics of Poona including even the British Roman Catholic soldiers, as is seen from the registers of baptisms, marriages, and deaths. The Portuguese cemetery too, in the vicinity of the Church, contains many tomb-stones bearing the names of British soldiers, the glory of whose brave deeds perhaps lies buried in their graves for want of required historical information. Under the benign influence of the British and the greater facilities of commerce and trade the Portuguese flocked in large numbers to Poona. The modest Chapel was found insufficient for their accommodation, hence arose the necessity for a large building. In June, 1842 the Government, in response to a petition, granted more ground but it was not till 1852 that the present edifice was raised near the site of the old one, through the indefatigable exertions of the Rev. F. G. da Conceicao, who collected a subscription of Rs. 12,000 from his parishioners for the purpose. Adjoining the churchyard towards the north lies the Ornella's school named after the distinguished Archbishop of Goa, D'Ayess de Ornella. Towards the south stands the Portuguese Hall of recent construction wherein are held the meetings of the community.

THE ALBERT EDWARD INSTITUTE.

The Albert Edward Institute is situated in East Street, nearly opposite the office of the Cantonment Inspector of Police. The institute which consists of a Reading Room and Library was built by public subscription to commemorate the visit of His Most Gracious Majesty King Edward VII to Poona. It was opened on the 12th September, 1880, by His Excellency Sir James Fergusson, Bart, the Governor of Bombay. The Institute is open to all classes of people. The Library contains over 1,500 volumes. The cost of the building was about Rs. 15,000. The rates of subscription are Rs. 2. Re, 1, and As. 8 per mensem. Application may be made to the Librarian on the premises.

Some years ago, the Library received some most valuable additions of books belonging formerly to the Cowasji Dinshaw Library, Bombay, and at the present day has one of the best collections of Books on general subjects in India.

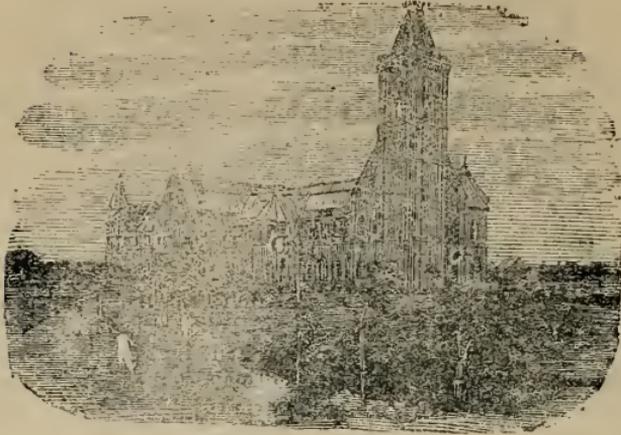

A substantial building, "the Cowasji Dinshaw Hall" has been built at the side of the Institute of which it forms a part.

THE JEWISH SYNAGOGUE

The Jewish Synagogue is situated on one of the principal roads of the Cantonment near the Post Office. It was built by the late Mr. David Sassoon and completed in 1867. It is a lofty church-like structure in the English Gothic style, but of red bricks, with trap stone arch work and million windows. The body of the interior is $62\frac{1}{2}$ by $43\frac{1}{2}$ and 30 feet high to the plank'd ceiling with galleries on three sides, supported on posts which are carried through lip to the roof. At the western end is an apse, at the end of which hangs a curtain which covers the recess where the holy books are kept. The floor of polished stones, is free from any thing but a few chairs and moveable seats. At about one-third the length of the room from the apse and in front of it is a raised wooden platform surrounded by railings, on which the priest stands officiating in the service. The windows are small panes of coloured glass.

At the east end over the porch is a lofty tower also of red brick, carrying a fine clock and ball surmounted by a steeple.

THE DAVID SASSOON GENERAL HOSPITAL.

Is another public building, a great blessing to the people of Poona. It is in the British Gothic style and was founded by the praiseworthy private munificence of David Sassoon and named after that philanthropic gentleman to whom in a great measure it owed its existence. It is now devoted to Indian patients. It was begun on the 8th October 1863 and opened on the 7th of October 1867. The building was designed by Colonel Wilkins, R. E. and the foundation stone was laid by the late Sir Bartle Frere, the then Governor of Bombay. The Hospital possesses a fine clock tower which is an acknowledged convenience to the general public. The total cost of the building amounted to over three lakhs, the gentleman whose name it bears contributing over two lakhs and the Government the remainder. In connection with the Hospital there is a Maternity Ward erected in 1883 from funds left for the purpose in his Will by Mr. Elias D. Sassoon. There is also a Parsee Maternity Ward named after the late Bai Meherbanoo S. Püdümji, erected to her memory by her late husband, Mr. Sorabji Püdümji C. S. in the year 1901.

THE JACOB SASSOON HOSPITAL.

At the time of arrival of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales in 1906 it was announced that Sir Jacob E. Sassoon Bart., had offered to give a lakh and a half of rupees to build a hospital for Europeans and Jews only, in connection with the hospital on a site adjoining the David Sassoon Hospital. It was afterwards found that a further sum would be required and the same gentleman generously increased his munificent gift bringing it to a sum of nearly two lakhs of rupees. This hospital was formally opened by Sir John Muir-Mackenzie on the 15th March 1909, it has accommodation for 30 European patients and 12 Jewish patients which together with the accommodation in the David Sassoon Hospital makes a total of 249 beds.

In connection with the Hospital, there is also the Byramjee Jeejeebhoy Medical School founded in 1897 for the instruction of lads in the Sub-ordinate Medical Department, and private practitioners. It is named in honour of the late Mr. Byramjee Jeejeebhoy C. S. I. a well known Parsee citizen of Bombay, who gave a bungalow with a large compound to be utilized as a residence and play ground for the students; he also gave rupees 10,000 to form an endowment of stipendiary students. In 1906 in consequence of the yearly increasing number of medical students, Government undertook to build a new hostel within the same compound to accommodate 108 students, so that the total accommodation available for students including the accommodation in the original bungalow is about 150. A bungalow for the Senior Assistant Surgeon, Khan Bah. (Dr. Bharucha) who is Superintendent, of the quarters and to be created within the same compound. No medical students are now permitted to reside in the city or anywhere outside.

The course of study in the School extends to a period of 4 years. There are 20 stipends available of the value of Rs. 9 and 10 per mensem; besides a scholarship of Rs. 5 per month and six prizes, one of Rs. 25, two of 20, two 15 and 1 of Rs. 10.

On the Sassoon Road between the quarters of the House Surgeon of the Sassoon Hospital and the Suburban Municipal Office, two lecture theatres, with a large museum and examination room over them and a Dissection room have been recently erected in connection with this school at a cost of Rs. 75,000 by the Government and the bungalow in the same compound has been converted into a chemical, historical and bacteriological laboratory.

THE BATTLE OF KIRKEE.-

Owing to the removal of the Arsenal from Bombay here, Kirkee has grown into a place of great importance. New bungalows have sprung up in all directions, and the working population has been greatly increased. The history of Kirkee is largely bound up with the battle which was fought there. The history of the intrigues and negotiations between Mr. Elphinstone, the Resident, and Bajee Rao, the Peishwa form an interesting chapter of duplicity and cunning. At the last interview in October between the two, the Peishwa had agreed to send his troops to the frontier after the "Dussera," but in lieu of doing so he massed them in Poona and its surroundings, where they became a menace to the Residency at the Sungam. General Smith, with a regiment of British troops, was pushing on towards Poona and would arrive in a few days. The Peishwa was anxious to attack these troops before their arrival, and a night surprise was meditated. Mr. Elphinstone was apprised of this, but though he felt some alarm he was convinced that the Peishwa's troops would not attack, because the latter distrusted those by whom he was surrounded. Mr. Elphinstone got all the troops in readiness the following day. At 4 o'clock on October 30th the European regiment by forced marches reached Poona Cantonment. Mr. Elphinstone now determined on moving the troops from their unsafe position to one more eligible, at the village of Kirkee, four miles distant which had been indicated by General Smith. The troops occupied Kirkee on the 1st November, and the Residency being close to the town, some men were sent for its protection. The vacated Cantonment was plundered, an officer en route to Bombay was attacked, wounded and robbed in open day. A light battalion and a party of auxiliary horse were on the way from Sirur. On the morning of the 5th fresh messages and assurances were sent; a messenger was despatched warning the Resident of what would follow if his troops were not withdrawn. An enormous force then poured out of the city, and the British troops were warned of their approach. The ground in front of Kirkee and Dapuri had been reconnoitred and a ford found, which although difficult was practicable for six pounders, three of which were manned by native artillerymen. The European troops at once advanced, the movement surprised the Mahratta troops, and a damper caused by the breaking of the staff of the Jurree Patha, or Mahratta Standard, spread through the troops. Gokhale, the General, with the true spirit of a soldier rode from rank to rank animating his men but the Peshwas heart failed him and he sent a message to Gokhale not to fire the first gun. The Mahratta General seeing the messenger and guessing his message, instantly began the attack by opening a battery of nine guns, detaching a strong corps of rocket camels to the right and pushing forward his cavalry to the right and left. The British troops were soon nearly surrounded by the horse, but the Mahratta infantry, owing to this rapid advance were left considerably in the rear, except a regular battalion under a portuguese named Pinto, which had marched by a shorter route, concealed for the time under cover of the enclosures and were forming with apparent steadiness immediately in front of the 1st battalion of the 7th regiment. No sooner, however, were they visible than the English sepoy pushing forward too close and so got detached from the rest of the line. The Mahratta General hoping they might come over, or that he could take advantage of their impetuosity, ordered a body of 6,000 horse to charge. The Mahratta guns ceased firing to let them pass and they came down at a gallop across the British, and riding straight at the 7th regiment. Colonel Burr perceived the moving mass, had just time to stop the pursuit of the Pinto's battalion already routed, and to call the men to reserve their fire. There was a deep slough of which neither party was aware, immediately in front of the British left. The foremost of the horses rolled over and many more before they could be pulled up tumbled over the horse, in front. The fire hitherto reserved was now given with tremendous effect numbers fell, confusion became extreme the force of the charge was lost; only a few came to the bayonet a few continued the attack in the rear, but many turned back some galloped round the left, as if to plunder the camp but they were driven off by two iron guns at Kirkee and the sepoy had nearly repulsed the attack before the Europeans who came at the double could arrive to their support, and the movement extended along the whole line. This failure disconcerted the Mahrattas, they began to drive off their guns, their infantry retired from the distant position they occupied and upon the advance of the British line the whole field was soon cleared. The brigade returned to its position at Kirkee after night fall and the light battalion and auxiliary horse joined it next morning. The report of their arrival and the effect of the former movement deterred the Mahratta General from renewing the attack. The number of the British troops engaged in the affair at Kirkee was 2,810 rank and file of whom about 800 were Europeans. The Mahratta army consisted of 800 horse and 8,000 foot with 14 guns. The Residency was plundered and burnt and of the Resident's library and private apartments not a stone was left, the families and followers of the troops who fell into the hands of the Mahrattas were robbed, beaten and frequently mutilated, gardens were destroyed, trees torn up by the roots and graves dug up. An engineer officer on survey was seized and killed, and two Europeans were taken while travelling between Bombay and Poona near Talegaon, and hanged. General Smith, finding his communications cut off, advanced on Poona. He arrived on the evening of the 13th, and preparations were made for attack on the 15th before daylight. The Peishwa's troops had received considerable additions. Then unforeseen difficulties at the ford delayed the advance, but about sunset the advanced brigade was ordered to cross the ford and take up a position to the east of the Peishwa's army, at the village of Ghorpuri, for the purpose of co-operating in an attack the following morning. The Peishwa's army opposed the advance and some severe fighting took place, and they lost 84 men. But the Mahrattas returned and they remained unmolested all night. In the morning when General Smith advanced on the Mahratta camp he found it abandoned, and the Peishwa gone to Satara. During the day the City surrendered, and the greatest care being taken for the protection of the peaceable part of the community, order and tranquility were soon re-established

KIRKEE.

Kirkee, with the Arsenal, the Stores, the Branch railway extending from the G. I. P. line and its number of newly built bungalows for European employees in the Arsenal, Small Arms Ammunition—and other Factories etc., is a rising centre, and is about four miles from Poona. Kirkee is an Artillery centre, and along with Poona, forms part of the Military capital of the Presidency. The surroundings are more open and the air fresher and purer than in comparatively busy crowded Poona—the former standing in the same relation to the latter, in which the country stands to the town.

Since the days when gunpowder ceased to be the explosive and smokeless powder took its place, a good many changes have taken place in Kirkee. It was intended to carry on the manufacture of cordite there, but it was found that the atmosphere was unsuitable and the factory had to be removed to Coonor. But in view of the danger to which Bombay Arsenal of the verge of the harbour was exposed, owing to the precision of the modern naval weapons it was decided to transfer the Arsenal to Kirkee. This move necessitated over one hundred European and a large number of Indian people coming to Kirkee, from Bombay and elsewhere. It is intended to greatly extend the present operations of the Arsenal and Europeans from outlying stations will also find employment here. The doubling of the line between Lanowli and Poona had helped this, and a loop line now runs into the Arsenal. H. E. the Commander-in Chief, in India, has paid several visits to the spot. Kirkee in the near future bids fair to become the leading Military depot of Western India.

POONA CITY.

A brief description of a few of the leading points of Poona City may not be out of place. The City had had a rather insanitary reputation of late; is roughly mapped out into three parts of which Kasba, Peth is the oldest and the Lakdi Pool, and the Manik-Odha. These again are divided into 18 districts, mostly with a principal street and a number of side streets. Some of these are called after the names of days of the week. In Kasba Peth some of the old families of the Deccan have their wadas, and many brahmin priests also reside here, Ganpati's Temple here with a history was built by the mother of the Great Shivaji. This temple and its surroundings have been greatly enlarged of late. The Shaik Salla Tombs have a history, being formerly the site of a Malratia Temple. There is a large tomb to the grandson of Aurangzeb.

In Shanwar Peth lived the Peishwas in their courts and palaces and surroundings, and here they abode in great magnificence. The place is still occupied by several law and other offices. There are some five temples to Shiva in this Peth and here too is the Panjrapol. In it are deposited stray cattle, dogs and other animals. It was afterwards made a permanent institution and the animals are fed according to their wants, the place is managed by a Committee.

Budhwar Peth is in the heart of the City. It was first built by Aurangzeb. And is full of temples and historic memories.

Shukrawar Peth is the largest in the City. The headquarter of the Peishwa's artillery was here. Then it became the City Jails and now the place is offices, of the City Magistrate, the City Mamletdar and the Haveli Mamledar. The Reay Market, a very fine market, is here. Also the big Rameshwar Temple, said to be very wealthy.

The same kind of history attached to most of these Peths, showing how gradually under Mahomedan, Hindu and British rule, the present City grew. That it needs a good deal a furbishing up in places a visitor will soon see. But as an eastern city the state perhaps is as good as any. It is full of old ancient rights and privileges from end to end, which make improvements difficult. Nevertheless for a city full of gods, it would be well if these concerned remembered the adage, "Cleanliness is nigh unto godliness."

OLD MAHRATTA PALACES AND FORTS.

The City and its neighbourhood around are rendered particularly interesting to the archaeologist and the antiquarian from the remains of the Old Mahratta palaces and forts. The former of these are to be met with all over the City, despoiled to a great extent of their ancient splendour yet still massive and unimpaired by the lapse of years; while the latter, including Singbur, Purandhar and other almost inaccessible hill fortresses so much frequented by the predatory Mahrattas still frown in their more or less ruined grandeur on the country below for miles around, though now converted to the more peaceful and pleasurable purposes of health resorts.

The following are the chief Hindu temples in the city:—The Tulshibag containing the idols of Rama, Laximan and Sita as the principal middle shrine, and those of other gods in smaller ones situated round it: The Deibag, contains the idols of Vishnu, very beautifully and artistically executed. It was built by the celebrated Nana Fadnavis, who was childless and when urged to adopt a son refused to do so stating that he thought it better to commemorate himself by a temple to Vishnu than by adopting a son, who for aught he could foretell might in the vicissitudes of fortune that man is liable to, one day be obliged to beg his bread, whilst Vishnu, if he did not commemorate his name, could not at least tarnish it. But the story rests on very uncertain grounds, and this remark is related also in respect to Nana's Cistern. Principal among other shrines are the Someswar, also lately restored from a dilapidated condition by a pious devotee: the Rameshwar, the Narsoba, and Khunya Murlihar. A rather curious story is told about the name of the last of these. The temple contains two idols, one of Krishna playing on the flute, and the other of his beloved Radha. The former of these is beautifully made while the latter does not claim any notice on that point. The difference is thus explained by a tradition. The masterly skill of the artist exhibited by the idol of Krishna excited the jealousy of some powerful person who cut off the right hand of the artist, who then prepared the other image with his left hand. Another story says that a Sirdar, who was seized with a strong desire of obtaining possession of the image, sent a body of soldiers to prevent the instalment of the image in its present place, but the soldiers met with a stubborn resistance at the door of the temple and were repulsed after some bloodshed. This explains why the temple is called Khunya Murlihar (literally Bloody Murlihar). At a little distance from Vriddheswar is another temple of Shiva carved out of a rock under the ground. In this subterranean temple, air and light are admitted round the temple of Nandi Shiva's Bull but the principal shrine is quite dark.

A MAKER OF INDIAN HISTORY.

During recent times an important revival of the memory of one who was deeply connected with what we know as historic Poona has taken place. At the far end of the old Wanowrie village, and amid not over cleanly surroundings, is an old burning ground, where a stately temple has been erected in memory of H. H. Mahadaji Scindia. The founder of the Scindia family was Ranoji Scindia, but it fell to the lot of his son the great Mahadaji to add to the glory of his family by a brilliant record of the deed which forms an important page in Indian history. Mahadaji was at once a soldier and a statesman, an admiring and sincere friend of the English, and a man of remarkable tenacity of purpose. His brilliant career was, however, cut short by his death at Wanowrie in 1794, and soon after the sad event a modest temple was erected on the cremation ground, it was, however, the intention of several of Mahadaji's successors to erect on the spot buildings illustrative of the sacred faith of the Hindus and serving as befitting specimens of Hindu architecture. The matter remained in abeyance for years but the present Maharaja Sir Mahadevrao Scindia G. C. S. I. took up the idea in earnest and he was heartily supported in his noble resolve by his esteemed mother Maharani Jijabai. The idea soon fructified, Rao Bahadur Dhondiba Hanmantrao Barji J. P., a well known contractor was consulted in the matter and eventually the designing and the erection of the three buildings which now decorate the site viz., Dindi Durwazha, Chhattree and Subha Mandap were entrusted to the late Mr. Shapoorja N. Chand abhoi, F. R. I. B. the wellknown Parsi Architect of Bombay. The Maharaja of Gwalior deserves the grateful thanks of Poona, for not only has he, by carrying out the original idea of his predecessors, kept alive the memory of his great progenitor, but also added a new very interesting phase to the life of Poona.

SIRDAR DASTUR HOSHANG BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL

This Parsee Institution in Poona owes its existence to the generosity of those Parsees who desired to commemorate the memory of the late Shams-ul-Ulama Sirdar Khan Bahadur Dr. Dastur Hoshang Jamsasp C. I. E. Ph. D. who was for a long time a moving force in the spiritual as well as the social circle of this city. His son Khan Bahadur Meher Hoshang who is the Honorary Secretary of the school, issued on the 26th December 1911 the following notice. The Sirdar Dastur Hoshang Boys' High School will be opened at No. 3 Arsenal Road from the 1st January 1912. In this Institution both secular and religious instruction will be imparted to Parsee youths by a specially selected staff of highly educated and experienced teachers."

Religious education on practical lines and moral training on Mr. Gould's system are the special features of this school, and prayers in Avesta as well as in English are daily offered before beginning the school lessons. Besides this, Parsee youths are prepared for the Bombay University Matriculation, Government School Final and the School of Arts Drawing Examinations every year. The school received from Government a Grant-in-aid annually and also possesses an up-to-date science laboratory. Selected students are permitted to join the Poona Auxiliary Force and Cadet Corps. The annual cricket fixture of the institution is always looked forward to by the boys with keenness and with pride. The University results, especially in English and Mathematics, have been so far very satisfactory and the school has been fairly well patronised by the Parsi families.

SARDAR KHAN BAH. DASTUR NOSHIRWAN ZOROASTRIAN GIRLS HIGH SCHOOL.

This school was established on 1st February 1893, from funds collected by Zoroastrian friends and admirers all over India in order to perpetuate the memory of the late Sardar Khan Bahadur Dastur Noshirwan Jamasp, High priest of the Parsees in the Deccan, who died on the 27th October 1884.

The School has supplied a desideratum long felt in the Parsee community of Poona, and its absence was a sad commentary on the intelligence and education of the Parsees. The subscribers to the fund, at a general meeting under the presidency of the second Sir Jan setji Jeejeebhoy Bart, C. S. I., met, and unanimously resolved to establish a school for the girls of the Parsee community of Poona, who could not have devoted the funds—to the extent of about Rs. 25,000 now amounting to Rs. 75,000—to a noble or worthier object. Already the school has proved a boon to the Parsee community and is a model School. The school receives from Government annually a grant-in-aid. Secular and spiritual education, the latter very much neglected in modern schools, go hand-in-hand together, while every attention is paid to Gujarati the mother tongue of the Parsees. Instruction in English is imparted by English ladies, one of whom presides over the school as the Head Mistress. Music has not been forgotten, while needle-work and embroidery are most carefully looked after. The late Sardar Khan Bahadur Dr. Dastur Hoshang C. I. E. has given one of his houses to the Trustees on the third day Ceremony of the late Sister of Dastur Dr. Hoshang, Bai Behmanbai who died on the 9th December 1894 and is called after her name, "The Bai Behmanbai Building". The managing Committee of the school later erected a new building for the school in Arsenal Road. The school has been well furnished by the liberality of several Parsee gentlemen and ladies. Khan Bahadur M. H. Dastur is the Honorary Secretary to the school.

POONA POOR ASYLUM.

This institution is situate near the top of Main street , was opened at the end of 1830, with a view to afford relief to such helpless persons who had no means of livelihood save begging , Sir Lionel Smith, K. C. B. was the first President . It contained something like sixty persons and its principal object was to reduce the number of beggars in the streets of the Cantonment. The first report contains a para in which it states that the food of each inmate is to average Rs. 2 per mensem , and continues the report the institution being through the favour of Divine Providence and the liberal support of the public possessed at present of the means of relieving all deserving objects about the Camp it is hoped that individuals will discourage begging. Some of the inmates who have been found begging have their allowances reduced for a day or two , but without the concurrence of the public this part of the society's exertions cannot succeed. In 1877, owing to the poor state of the funds the number of inmates had to be greatly reduced and the institution temporarily closed to new patients. During the chaplaincy of the Rev. A. G. Cane efforts were made by him, assisted by the Rev. J. Small, to resuscitate the Asylum . The subscribers of the Institution from time to time comprise a number of names well known, amongst others the late Miss Ashlin. The Institution is situated in the corner of Main and West Streets and is admittedly carrying on a good and useful work, its object being to and support the helpless and infirm, and the wandering poor, a work of great value and usefulness. Should any information be required respecting the nature and objects of the Asylum it will be readily supplied.

by the Hon. Secretary Mr. J. G. Gardiner. The accounts are audited yearly and a balance sheet posted. The last one shows the need of further subscriptions.

An additional quadrangle was added to the original buildings, and the accommodation increased to 150 boys. The institution is under the immediate supervision of the Superintendent, whose permission is necessary to visit the institution.

The boys are all convicts, and the place was practically a part of the Jail a few years ago, when thanks to the late Inspector General of Prisons, Colonel Jackson, I. M. S., a great change has taken place here; the administration is now carried on by the Educational Department, the object of the change being to treat the boys less as convicts and to lead them back to honest ways. The new arrangements have been favourably reported on.

MILITARY OFFICES.

MILITARY ACCOUNTS OFFICE.—The building occupied by the Military Accounts Department opposite the Telegraph Office, was intended originally for an hotel, but on the recommendation of a committee it was purchased for Government, before its completion in 1865 for the sum of 3½ lakhs of rupees from a Bombay Parsee gentleman Mr. Merwanjee Jamssetjee. THE POST OFFICE.

One of the changes which has taken place of late years and which was badly wanted was a new post office. The waste ground on the space facing the Poona Hotel was selected and the new office built there. It is a commodious, but not very elegant building, has a very heavy looking porch, and presents a quaint appearance. Was originally in a building at the back now used as a Railway Post Office for Railway Mail Service. The new post office faces East and was erected at a cost of Rs. 1,30,462. THE THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY, POONA BRANCH.

The Theosophical Society was founded in 1875 and its Headquarters are located at Adyar, Madras, where there is also a very large Oriental Library. It has been registered as a Literary and Scientific Society under Act XXXI of 1860. "It consists of 30 great autonomous Sections:—in America, England and Wales, India, Australia, Scandinavia, New Zealand, Netherlands, France, Italy Cuba, Finland, Russia, South Africa, Scotland, Belgium, Dutch East Indies, Burma, Norway, Egypt Denmark and Iceland, Ireland, Mexico Canada, Chili, Argentina, Brazil, Austria, Germany, and Bulgaria. The president of the Society is Mrs. Annie Besant, who is assisted by a Council. The objects of the society are,—

- I. To form a nucleus of the Universal Brotherhood of Humanity without distinction of race, creed, sex, caste or colour.
- II. To encourage the study of comparative Religion, Philosophy, and Science.
- III. To investigate unexplained Laws of Nature and the powers latent in man.

The Society keeps itself quite aloof from politics, it is entirely unsectarian and does not interfere with the religious or philosophic opinions on its members. It tries to remove religious antagonisms, and points out that truth is to be sought by study, by reflection, by purity of life, and by devotion to high ideals. Theosophy is a body of truths which forms the basis of all religions. It is a philosophy which renders life intelligible.

The rooms of the Society in Poona are located in Boottee House, Boottee Street, (Camp) where Theosophical books and pamphlets can also be had. There are weekly meetings on Sunday evening at 6 p.m. and these are open to the public.

"Bazme Roze Behram" which was established on 9th September 1877 under the patronage of the late Sirdar Nowshirwan Jamasp Aana, the High Priest of the Parsees, in the Deccan. The objects of this Association are to increase religious knowledge and faith in the Zoroastrian religion, and to promote brotherhood among the members. The members meet together on the Parsee Behram Roze day, after the usual religious Jasan ceremony which is more or less a part of the Zoroastrian religion, and which on account of its being written in a dead language, makes it very difficult for many a Parsee to thoroughly understand or appreciate its philosophy. This Association in its quiet way does much good to the community. Many leading Parsee gentlemen of Bombay, Surat, Ahmedabad and the Mofussil including Afghanistan, China Ader and Karachi, belong to the Association.

THE PARVATI HILL

Is about four miles to the south-west of Poona on the top of which stands the temple of a Hindu goddess built by the Peishwa Balaji Bajirao, who reigned from 1741 to 1761, in honor of his friend, the Raja of Satara for the enormous sum of about one million of rupees, it is said towards the middle of the eighteenth century and occupying full six years in building. On its completion, Shiva's (Mahadev's) image was placed in the shrine. The idol was made wholly of silver, weighing two maunds: on the knee was seated the goddess Parvati, fashioned in gold, weighing 1,100 tolas, and on the other Ganpati, also of gold weighing 7,000 tolas, while the ornaments adorning these silver and gold idols, were very costly. Round Shiva's image are four idols, representing different deities, in separate shrines close by them are many other idols made of marble and a bull carved out of black stone. There are still to be seen the ruins of other temples at the palace of the Peishwa, the latter of which is reported to have been destroyed by lightning, while the undaunted pedestrian who essays the labour of ascending the long and toiled some flight of stone steps leading up the summit, can obtain the finest view perhaps, to be had of Poona, and the surrounding country and out of the very window from which Baji Rao, the last of the Peishwas, already referred to above, is reported to have eagerly watched the fortunes of the fateful battle of Kirkee, and witness the total rout by British troops of his warriors, and ruin of his fond hopes and expectations. The engagement sealed the Mahatta power in this part of the country. The Government allowed a monthly grant of nearly two thousand rupees for the maintenance and preservation of this historical temple, which is built entirely of stone with the dome once gilt, but since sadly tarnished by the hand of time : while the gold and silver idols glistening with the most costly precious stones, fully worth a King's ransom were either destroyed or plundered and the glory of Parvati had departed for a time. Owing to the water-works at Kharakwasla being established the Lake in front of it, which it was thought helped to make the City of Poona more water-logged than it is, was drained and since that time has remained as a sort of grazing ground for cattle and a resort for citizens to pass an idle hour in.

THE ARMY VETERINARY SCHOOL.

This School, situated at Wanowrie, is a fairly extensive institution, has stables on all sides and a hospital with all necessary appliances, a museum, and a forge, loose barns and stalls for horses. The Institution though a Government one, is practically self-supporting and is under the direction of a military committee. Both European, and Native students are admitted, the course for the former being in the monsoon in June, July and August, and the latter in the cold season, November, December and January. Horses are treated in the institution, which has all the latest appliances.

ST. HELENA'S HIGH SCHOOL.

St. Helena's intended chiefly for the children of the Indian community, is under the Superintendence of Miss Susie Sorabji, assisted by a Staff of trained teachers. A few years ago St. Helena's was composed of about 30 children to-day it has a roll of 150 pupils and possesses one of the best buildings in Poona, owing to the generosity of Miss Helen Miller Gould of New York.

Pupils are prepared for the Matriculation examination of the University of Bombay. The yearly course of study is arranged according to the Government Code for European Schools, with this difference, that the pupils learn Guzerati side by side with English.

Froebel's inimitable system renders lessons a delight to the small people in the Kindergarten and they enter with much spirit into the object lessons, the Nature Study, the Kindergarten Games and the countless occupations of this excellent mode of child-culture

Singing, Calisthenics, Elocution, and Plain and Art Needlework, have been made special features of the course of instruction given.

VITHALWADI.

Vithalwadi is about six miles distance from Poona situated on the bank of the Mutha river. Great importance is attached to the place on account of its temple and the beautiful scenery it commands. The old temple is said to have been built by Shivaji, the founder of the Maratha Empire, who is said to have had a divine inspiration for building it, owing to a miraculous escape he had from an attack made by the Bijapur soldiery. The approaches to the river are built over and provided with stairs, close to which is a shrine dedicated to "Pundik" a saint of Mahratta history.

The extensive additions to the old temple and grounds were made by Rao Bahadur Bhan Mamsram, a well-known citizen of Poona, who expended over a lakh of rupees in the place. Besides renovating the old temple he added a large hall and galleries substantially built in grey trap, and provided rooms, and a Dharamshalla for the accommodation of travellers. Water has also been laid on by leading a stream into stone cisterns.

When the Rao Bahadur died in 1894 the work of the extension and improvement was incomplete. It has been carried out by his son, the late Mr. Kaluram who had followed worthily in his father's footsteps.

THE TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

Behind the Post Office and in proximity to St. Paul's Church, is the building which was built for the Government Telegraph Office. It is an upper-storied substantial building with extensive back premises for telegraph peons and others. The building has residential quarters for the signallers, and also for the Assistant Superintendent who is usually in charge. Its central position and proximity to the Post Office adds to the convenience of the public.

THE PHOTOZ INCOGRAPHIC OFFICE.

IMPERIAL BANK OF INDIA AND COLLECTOR OFFICE

The Government Treasury and Poona Branch of the Imperial Bank of India are located in the compound where the Collector's Office and the Record Office are situated. The District Magistrate and his Assistant frequently sit in the katcheri.

KHARAKWASLA WATERWORKS

From the former of these the Cantonment and the City derive their water supply. It is about ten miles away from our starting point the Post Office Zero Stone the water of the lake being dammed up by a strong embankment thrown across at one end. The embankment is one mile in length, and the Lake itself from ten to twelve miles long. There is also a good bungalow there, in charge of the Executive Engineer for Irrigation. Mr. Visvesvaraya (now Sir M. Visvesvaraya, Ex-Dewan of Mysore) designed and provided a number of automatic gates for the water weir, a most ingenious contrivance.

THE KATRAJ GHAT TUNNEL.

By Katraj Ghat Tunnel the City was formerly furnished by the beneficent Peishwas with a copious supply of water, but increased wants have caused a fresh source of supply to be obtained.

CENTRAL GYMNASIUM, POONA.

The above institution, which was opened in 1875 has since been greatly improved and modernised, is one of the finest of its kind in India and is situated on a bit of rising ground near St. Andrew's Church and the Masonic Hall.

The Central Gymnasium, Poona, is used as a training school both for the European and Native troops for the Southern Army, to which all Officers and N. C. O's entrusted with the education of others are sent with a view to their obtaining various certificates of qualification as instructors.

The institution is open for instruction daily from 7 to 8 a. m. and again from 9-30 a. m. to 12-30 p. m. and for the voluntary attendance for Officers, N. C. O's and men from 5 to 6-30 p. m.

In connection with the above Gymnasium there is a Swimming Bath in which soldiers are taught to swim. The Bath is filled with fresh water every Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday mornings when practicable.

The Bath is reserved for Officers on Sundays from 7 a. m. to 8-30 a. m.

RACING IN POONA.

It is difficult to write of the Racing in Poona to-day from a point of comparison with the racing of bygone years. Racing in Poona to-day has grown out of all proportion to that of former days and has formed almost the main feature of the once gay and pleasant Poona Season. But with returning life to Poona once more we may see a revival of that social life which for long was a custom here. The accommodation here afforded for racing is very good: the provision for stabling horses increases, the approaches greatly widened; the accommodation doubled and trebled.

Those who knew the race course only ten years ago will be surprised at the complete transformation which has taken place. It still follows the border of the General Parade Ground but it is supplemented by two tracks for exercising purposes. The old stables and quarters are all swept away, and very extensive provision made in their places. The vast improvement in the new Stand, the new Reserved Stand which is for the Poona Clubs the Second Enclosure: the further stand for soldiers, the Stables, the Poalock, have been supplemented by special reserved stands in separate enclosures, exclusively for members of the Club and their friends. The approaches to the Course have been widened and the principal road is now known as "Barnett Road" as much of this was due to the initiative of the late General Sir Chas. Barnett.

The enormous stakes which the Club is able to offer at the present day, has attracted some of the best horses in the world to our Race course: as well as the arrangements which the Staff have been able to make owing to the altered conditions of racing here in Poona.

Much of the great prosperity of the Western India Turf Club is due to the introduction of the Totaliser, which has popularised betting on horses to an extent never imagined in the old bookmaker days, and has enabled the Club to give away large sums of money for charitable and useful purposes, and at the same time to make provision for the comfort of their guests.

We have usually Eight Extra and Seven Poona Races Meetings. The Offices of the W. I. T. C. are at what was the Willingdon Soldiers' Club the latter being shifted to more central and convenient quarters.

POONA AND ROYAL CONNAUGHT BOAT CLUB.

Oarsmen visiting Poona may indulge in their favourite pastime on the bosom of the Mulla and Mutha River which sweeps in broad and graceful curves from Kirkee to the Bund where the Poona Boat Club is. "Rosherville," the Royal Connaught Boat Club, is situated near Kirkee. It is a single-storied building well adapted for the purpose for which it is intended, and lies almost hidden by trees in a garden, the terraces of which lead down to the water's edge. Everything is green and beautiful, even the tall Cypress trees. The Club is frequented by ladies as well as men, and membership is by ballot. A band plays occasionally at the Club during the season and social functions are held there. The Club holds an annual Regatta at which at various times rowing men from Bombay, and elsewhere have competed, Racing and other boats are available to members, who may row up the river from the Poona Boat house near the Bund Gardens and send their carriages to meet them at Rosherville, or vice versa. A few sailing boats may occasionally be seen on the river.

THE MASONIC HALL

Is an unpretentious looking but withal a very commodious building situated on a commanding eminence to the immediate west of the Connaught Institute, now used as Y. M. C. A. Rooms, overlooking the Water-works towards the west. The present Connaught Institute was the original Masonic Hall, and was then the only hall of the size in Poona. The building was sold to Government in October 1867 and the present Lodge room built from its proceeds to which was afterwards added the present dining hall. The banquet hall can easily seat 80 persons.

The affairs of the Hall are managed by a committee consisting of 7 members of each of the two proprietary Lodges, "St. Andrews" and "Orion." Lt-Colonel Dinshah D. Khambatta is Secretary and Treasurer.

The following hold their periodical meetings in the Hall.
